Chief Minister Bhajanlal Sharma Inaugurates India Stonemart 2026, Says – Rajasthan's Stone Is Both Our Heritage and Our Future

INDIA STONE MART 2026

IS MORE THAN JUST A BUSINESS EVENT – IT'S A POWERFUL CONFLUENCE OF CULTURE, CRAFTSMANSHIP, AND INDUSTRY.

Chief Minister, Shri Bhajanlal Sharma said that India Stonemart is not merely a business event, but a shared platform representing Indian culture, craftsmanship, and industrial strength.

He welcomed Industry Minister Colonel Rajyavardhan Singh Rathore, LUB General Secretary Shri Prakash Chand, office-bearers of Laghu Udyog Bharati, RIICO, CDOS, representatives of the industry, traders, and workers.

The Chief Minister stated that today the world views India as a major investment destination and a strong market, and natural resources such as marble and sandstone are emerging as key sectors for investment. He noted that Rajasthan has 85 types of minerals, and almost every district has its own unique stone identity. He highlighted that Rajasthan stone has been used in iconic buildings such as Rashtrapati Bhavan, Parliament House, and the Supreme Court.

One of the biggest strengths of Rajasthan stone, he said, is that once constructed properly, it requires minimal maintenance. Sharing the vision of One District-One Product and One District-One Stone, the Chief Minister spoke about providing special encouragement to MSMEs and small and medium industries. He emphasized that respect for workers, fair wages, safety, and skill-enhancement programs are among the government's top priorities.

He called upon industry stakeholders to move forward as a team, adopt modern technology, and take Rajasthan stone to global markets, assuring them that the government stands shoulder to shoulder with them.

IN RAJASTHAN, STONES SPEAK HISTORY, SAYS INDUSTRY MINISTER COLONEL RAJYAVARDHAN SINGH RATHORE

Industry Minister Colonel Rajyavardhan Singh Rathore set a compelling and confident tone at the inauguration of India Stonemart 2026, describing the event as a reflection of Rajasthan's industrial strength, heritage, and growing global influence.

Emphasizing governance reforms and investor-friendly policies, Rathore assured entrepreneurs of the state government's unwavering commitment to industry facilitation. "In our government, files move fast—not entrepreneurs," he said, drawing appreciation from the audience. He reaffirmed that the administration is focused on simplifying procedures, reducing delays, attracting investment, and strengthening the ease of doing business.

Welcoming delegates, industry leaders, and international participants at JECC, Sitapura, Rathore remarked that Rajasthan is a land where history does not need to be written—it is carved in stone. He traced the evolution of India Stonemart from its humble beginnings in 2000 to its 13th edition, noting that it has now emerged as a globally respected platform for the stone industry.

He also praised the seamless integration of technology, design, and value addition showcased at India Stonemart 2026, stating that such platforms are instrumental in enabling Rajasthan to move beyond raw material supply and establish itself in high-value global markets. Expressing gratitude to the Chief Minister, industry stakeholders, partners, and media representatives, Rathore conveyed confidence that India Stonemart 2026 will open new avenues for exports, innovation, and employment, further reinforcing Rajasthan's position as the powerhouse of India's stone industry.

Highlighting the international stature of the event, the Industry Minister shared that 66 global companies from countries including Iran, Italy, Turkey, and China are participating this year, reflecting the strong trust and confidence the global market places in Rajasthan's stone sector.

THEY SAID IT

Rajasthan's stone industry is a way of life, and Stonemart 2026 represents a confluence of heritage and modernity. It will promote new investment and advanced technology in Rajasthan.

The Rajasthan government is at the forefront of policy formulation and investment-friendly initiatives. Participation of national and international stakeholders at Stonemart will drive Rajasthan's growth forward.

This event is a symbol of the strength, potential, and global acceptance of Rajasthan's stone industry. This edition is an international platform for trade, technology, investment, and employment.

India Stonemart are extremely important for micro, small, and medium enterprises. Everyone is welcome on this global platform.

JAIPUR SETS NEW GLOBAL BENCHMARKS

From Heritage to High-Tech, A New Era of Innovation and Worldwide Reach

ISM 2026 : MULTIPLE “FIRSTS” – A HISTORIC EDITION

The 13th edition of India Stonemart-International Stone Industry Exhibition is scheduled to be held during February 5-8, 2026 at Jaipur Exhibition and Convention Centre (JECC), Sitapura Industrial Area, Jaipur. India Stonemart 2026 is historic in many respects, introducing several innovative and far-reaching initiatives for the first time. First Time - Official Website in More Than 26 International Languages For the history of India Stonemart, This initiative aims to provide global outreach to India's natural stones—particularly stones from Rajasthan—by making comprehensive information accessible in local languages across different countries. This multilingual approach significantly strengthens communication with international buyers, investors, and industry representatives worldwide.

Dedicated Digital Exhibition Mobile App

A dedicated digital mobile application has been developed for India Stonemart 2026 for the first time. The app will provide integrated facilities such as virtual e-stalls having product display, exhibition management support, stall location mapping, exhibitor profiles, meeting scheduling, live updates, and professional networking. The application will be made available free of cost to exhibitors for a period of two years, enabling continued business networking and engagement even after the conclusion of the event.

India Stonemart 2026 has been planned over a vast net exhibition area of 24,771 square meters, the largest in the history of the event. This expanded scale is a clear indicator of rising demand, increased exhibitor participation from India and abroad, and growing international confidence in the platform.
